ADF ACADEMY

JOURNALISM

OVERVIEW

The ADF Journalism Academy equips young professionals to be quality journalists and communicators who promote truth in their respective fields. The training includes philosophical foundations in the profession, as well as the art of storytelling, messaging, media relations, and video journalism. It incorporates practical skills necessary to succeed in the field and envisions attendees to craft a meaningful career strategy.

The Journalism Academy builds a community of media communications professionals who are committed to pursuing integrity in the profession while encouraging attendees to be authentic Christians in their workplaces. Faculty includes ADF media communications team members, ADF attorneys, respected journalists, and active media professionals.

Applicants should be young professionals or college students in the United States pursuing careers in media and communications. Applicants compete for a limited number of seats.
