 A. A motion to intervene is timely. 3

1 INTRODUCTION

2 Dr. Eric Hazelrigg joins the Attorney General’s motion asking this Court to 3 substitute him as guardian ad litem for all unborn children in Arizona. This Court has 4 discretion to do so and substitution would simply maintain the status quo of the parties 5 from the original proceedings in this case.

6 Mr. Cliffton Bloom was a separate party with his own private counsel acting as 7 guardian ad litem on behalf of the interests of unborn children in Arizona. At some point 8 this Court also designated Mr. Bloom as an intervenor, referring to him in the March 27, 9 1973, Order enjoining A.R.S. § 13-3603 as “the intervenor Cliffton E. Bloom, as guardian 10 ad litem of the unborn child of the plaintiff Jane Roe and all other unborn infants similarly 11 situated.” Second Am. Declaratory J. and Inj. at 1-2. In doing so, this Court determined he 12 satisfied the requirements to serve as both guardian ad litem and intervenor. The Attorney 13 General’s briefing demonstrates Dr. Hazelrigg meets the requirements to substitute as 14 guardian ad litem. But Dr. Hazelrigg and Choices Pregnancy Center, where he serves as 15 medical director, also satisfy the requirements for intervention under Rule 24. They, 16 therefore, respectfully ask this Court to grant them intervention should the Court deny the 17 Attorney General’s Rule 25 motion to substitute.¹

18 This motion is timely. And as a practicing obstetrician in Arizona and Choices’ 19 medical director, Dr. Hazelrigg has an interest in the health and protection of unborn 20 children in Arizona. As a nonprofit organization that provides pregnant women and their 21 children with support, information, and services before and after the birth, Choices also has 22 an interest and experience in protecting the rights of the unborn in Arizona. Decl. of Marc 23 Burmich at ¶ 3, attached. This Court’s decision to modify or vacate the prior injunction of 24

25 ¹ Should the Court grant the Attorney General’s Rule 25 motion to substitute, Dr.
Hazelrigg’s request for intervention will be rendered moot and Choices will withdraw its request for intervention.

1 A.R.S. § 13-3603 may impede or impair these interests. The Attorney General and Pima 2 County Defendants do not adequately represent these interests because the State must also 3 represent the competing interests of other citizens and the Pima County attorney has joined 4 Planned Parenthood’s brief and made no attempt to represent the interests of the unborn in 5 this case.

6 LEGAL STANDARDS

7 Under Rule 24, “the superior court must permit intervention when four conditions 8 are satisfied:

- 9 (1) the motion is timely;
10 (2) the movants claim an interest relating to the subject matter of the action; 11 (3) the movants show that disposition of the action may, as a practical matter, impair 12 or impede their ability to protect their interests; and 13 (4) the movants show that the existing parties do not adequately represent their 14 interests.”

15 See Heritage Village II Homeowners Ass’n v. Norman, 246 Ariz. 567, 570 (Ariz. App.
16 2019).

17 In the alternative, a court may grant permissive intervention to anyone who: “(A) 18 has a conditional right to intervene under a statute; or (B) has a claim or defense that shares 19 with the main action a common question of law or fact.” Ariz. R. Civ. P. 24(b)(1)(A)–(B).

20 ARGUMENT

21 Dr. Hazelrigg joins the Attorney General’s motion and related briefing asking this 22 Court to substitute him as guardian ad litem to represent and protect the interests of all 23 unborn children in Arizona. Substitution is appropriate here because this Court’s 24 previously appointed guardian ad litem passed away and Dr. Hazelrigg’s extensive 25

1 experience caring for the medical needs of unborn children makes him particularly 2 qualified to take his place.

3 If this Court denies the Attorney General’s motion, Dr. Hazelrigg and Choices move 4 to intervene on behalf of themselves and unborn children in Arizona to protect their 5 interests. The Court should grant the motion.

6 I. Dr. Hazelrigg and Choices satisfy Rule 24’s intervention as of right 7 requirements.

8 Intervention as of right is appropriate because (1) the motion is timely; (2) Dr.
9 Hazelrigg is an obstetrician and Choices is an organization dedicated to protecting pregnant 10 women and their babies, and claim an interest in protecting unborn children in Arizona 11 relating to the subject matter of the action; (3) this Court’s decision may impair those 12 interests; and (4) the existing parties do not adequately represent their interests.

13 A. A motion to intervene is timely.

14 “Timeliness hinges on two discrete questions: ‘the stage at which the action has 15 progressed, . . . and whether the applicant was in a position to seek intervention at an earlier 16 stage of the proceedings.’” Heritage Village II, 246 Ariz. at 571. This action has only just 17 started. The Attorney General moved for relief on July 13, 2022, and Planned Parenthood 18 responded on July 20, 2022. The parties agree that the Supreme Court’s decision in Dobbs 19 v. Jackson Women’s Health Org., 142 S. Ct. 2288 (2022) is cause for this Court to modify 20 this Court’s prior order enjoining A.R.S. § 13-3603 under Rule 60(b). See Def. AG’s Mot.
21 for Relief from J. at 7–11, and Pl.’s Resp. Br. at 2.

22 Counsel for Dr. Hazelrigg and Choices participated in the Court’s July 22, 2022, 23 Status Conference and will comply with all briefing deadlines and participate in the 24 argument scheduled for August 19, 2022. Intervention will not cause delay or prejudice to 25 the parties.

1 B. Dr. Hazelrigg and Choices have an interest in protecting unborn 2 children in Arizona relating to the subject matter of the action.

3 This Court acknowledged unborn children in Arizona have an interest in the subject 4 matter of laws governing abortion when it appointed Mr. Bloom as guardian ad litem to 5 represent their interests. As an obstetrician, Dr. Hazelrigg is ideally situated to protect the 6 unborn’s interests in this Court’s decision modifying or vacating the prior judgment 7 enjoining A.R.S. § 13-3603. The same is true of Choices where he serves as medical 8 director furthering Choices’ mission of assisting pregnant women and their children with 9 prenatal and post-birth services—from prenatal vitamins and parenting classes to 10 mentoring and providing free diapers. Burmich Decl. ¶ 13.

11 The subject matter of this action implicates the interests of unborn children in 12 Arizona because the Court of Appeals has already determined in this case that one cannot 13 deny “an embryonic or fetal organism is ‘life,’” and “[o]nce begun, the inevitable result is 14 a human being.” Nelson v. Planned Parenthood Ctr. of Tucson, 19 Ariz. App. 142, 148 15 (1973).

16 The Court of Appeals even said, “here there is an embryo or fetus incapable of 17 protecting itself,” confirming the need to protect their interests. Id. It found that “[t]he 18 state’s power to protect children is a well-established constitutional maxim . . . That this 19 power should be used to protect a fertilized egg or embryo or fetus during the period of 20 gestation embodies no logical infirmity.” Id. at 149. Scientific advancements in the last 21 five decades have only confirmed what the Court of Appeals recognized in 1973: embryotic 22 and fetal organisms are human life, and abortion destroys that human life. See Dr. Eric 23 Hazelrigg and Choices Pregnancy Center’s Proposed Reply in Supp. of AG’s Mot. for 24 Relief from J. at 5–7 (“Proposed Reply in Supp. of Mot. for Relief from J.”).

25 Arizona courts and the legislature have likewise recognized the interests of unborn children in other contexts. In Summerfield, the Arizona Supreme Court interpreted a statute

1 authorizing wrongful death actions to permit action by parents on behalf of a fetus—citing 2 Arizona statutes making it a felony to cause the death of an unborn child, making the death 3 of an unborn child an aggravating circumstance for sentencing purposes, and imposing a 4 duty on physicians to take reasonable steps to preserve the life and health of unborn 5 children. Summerfield v. Super. Ct. In and For Maricopa Cnty., 144 Ariz. 467, 476–79 6 (Ariz. 1985); see also A.R.S. § 14-3951 (providing that approval agreements involving 7 trusts and other interests are binding on all parties, including those “unborn.”).

8 The interests of unborn children in Arizona in laws governing abortion are strong 9 and justify Dr. Hazelrigg’s participation as substitute guardian ad litem or intervenor along 10 with Choices to represent and protect those interests. The Court of Appeals correctly 11 recognized: (1) the unborn constitute unique human life, (2) the unborn cannot protect 12 themselves, and (3) the unborn merit protection and representation of their interests by a 13 third party even where the state has the power to protect them.

14 Dr. Hazelrigg and Choices will represent and protect these recognized interests on 15 behalf of unborn children in Arizona. They also will protect Choices’ interest in preserving 16 its limited resources so it can focus on pre-natal care and parenting classes. If Planned 17 Parenthood’s reading of the law prevails, Choices will have to spend more resources 18 assisting women suffering from post-abortion regret instead of other programs.² Burmich
19 Decl. ¶ 19. These interests relate to this Court’s consideration of the Attorney General’s 20 motion for this Court to vacate the prior judgment enjoining enforcement of A.R.S. § 13-21 3603. Dr. Hazelrigg and Choices satisfy the second requirement for intervention as of right.

22 C. This Court’s modification or vacatur of the injunction may impair or 23 impede Dr. Hazelrigg’s and Choices’ interests in protecting unborn 24 children in Arizona.

25 ² See Proposed Reply in Supp. of Mot. for Relief from J. at 6 (describing the psychological and mental health risks to women caused by abortion).

1 Under Rule 24, proposed intervenors need only show “that an interest ‘may’ be 2 impaired or impeded.” Heritage Village II, 246 Ariz. at 573. This is a “minimal burden” 3 and “should be liberally construed with the view of assisting parties in obtaining justice 4 and protecting their rights.” Id. So, the “would-be intervenor must show only that 5 impairment of its substantial legal interest is possible if intervention is denied.” Id. at 572.

6 Dr. Hazelrigg and Choices satisfy this minimal burden because unborn children 7 cannot protect themselves and Arizona courts regularly appoint or allow third parties to 8 represent or intervene on behalf of children’s interests even where the state has acted to 9 protect children. See Roberto F. v. Ariz. Dep’t of Econ. Sec., 232 Ariz. 45, 52–53 (2013) 10 (affirming decision of trial court granting permissive intervention by foster parents in state-11 initiated dependency proceedings because intervention was in the child’s best interests and 12 the court found that the foster parents desired to protect the children); J.W. v. Dep’t of Child 13 Safety, 252 Ariz. 184, 342–43 (2021) (recognizing the right of the child to have counsel 14 and a separate guardian ad litem appointed to protect his interests after the Department of 15 Child Safety took custody of him to protect him from parents’ domestic violence and 16 substance abuse); Castro v. Hochuli, 236 Ariz. 587, 588 (2015) (court appointed guardian 17 ad litem and counsel when Department of Child Safety initiated dependency proceedings).

18 The Court of Appeals explained repeatedly that A.R.S. § 13-3603 affects the 19 interests of unborn children because it prohibits the elective destruction of human life.
20 Nelson, 19 Ariz. App. at 148–49 (reasoning, “[o]ne cannot gainsay a legislative 21 determination that an embryonic or fetal organism is ‘life.’ Once begun, the inevitable result 22 is a human being,” rejecting Plaintiff’s contention that “the fundamental right to privacy” 23 “include[s] a fundamental right to destroy life,” and concluding, “here there is an embryo 24 or fetus incapable of protecting itself.”). See also Dobbs, 142 S. Ct. at 2258 (“What sharply 25 distinguishes the abortion right from the rights recognized in the cases on which Roe and

1 Casey rely is something that both those decisions acknowledged: Abortion destroys what 2 those decisions call ‘potential life’” (emphasis added)).

3 The interests of unborn children in Arizona that proposed intervenors represent will 4 be impeded by Planned Parenthood’s suggested reading of A.R.S. § 13-3603 to only 5 prohibit abortions by non-licensed physicians and Planned Parenthood’s unfounded³
6 arguments that the Arizona Legislature actually intended to authorize abortion up to 15 7 weeks’ gestation—not restrict it in order to protect unborn children as much as possible.⁴
8 See Pl.’s Resp. Br. at 11–16. Planned Parenthood’s suggested reading may also impair 9 Choices’ interest in preserving its limited resources to support women by providing pre-10 natal care and parenting. If Planned Parenthood’s reading of the law prevails, Choices will 11 have to spend more resources assisting women suffering from post-abortion regret.⁵

12 Even though Roe and Casey mandated elective abortion until viability, most 13 abortions under that regime took place in the first trimester, or 12 weeks’ gestation.⁶
14 According to the CDC, 92.7% of United States abortions occurred in the first trimester.⁷ 15 And in Arizona, 95% of abortions (13,186) occurred at 15 weeks’ gestation or sooner in 16

17 ³ Proposed Intervenor addresses these contentions in its Proposed Rule 60(b) Reply Brief
18 and joins the Attorney General’s Reply Brief explaining why Planned Parenthood’s reading 19 of the Arizona statutes is wrong.

20 ⁴ See S.B. 1164, 55th Leg., 2nd Reg. Sess. (Ariz. 2022) at 3-4, available at 21 <https://www.azleg.gov/legtext/55leg/2R/bills/sb1164p.pdf> (explaining that the 15-week’s 22 gestation limit does not create or recognize a right to abortion, emphasizing the 23 development of the unborn child and that by 12 weeks’ gestation, “the unborn human 24 being has taken on ‘the human form’ in all relevant respects,” and noting the state’s 25 “important and legitimate” “interest in protecting the life of the unborn,”); A.R.S. § 36-2153 (requiring information on the gestational age and probable anatomical and 22 physiological characteristics of the unborn child to satisfy informed consent before 23 performing an abortion); A.R.S. § 36-2156 (requiring an ultrasound and the image of the 24 unborn child offered to the woman seeking an abortion); A.R.S. § 35-196.02 (prohibiting 25 the use of public funds for elective abortions); A.R.S. § 36-2157 (prohibiting abortion because of the sex, race, or potential genetic abnormality of the unborn child).

1 2020.⁸ Because most abortions take place in the first trimester, there are still thousands of 2 unborn children whose interests may be impaired if this Court adopts Planned Parenthood’s 3 proposed modification of the prior injunction. Planned Parenthood’s contention that there
4 are no unborn children left for the guardian ad litem to protect is wrong. See Planned 5 Parenthood’s Opp’n to Mot. to Substitute Dr. Hazelrigg as Intervenor and Guardian ad 6 Litem of Unborn Infants at 4. The vast majority of unborn children in Arizona who cannot 7 protect themselves from abortion will be affected by this Court’s decision on A.R.S. § 13-8 3603 because it prohibits the elective destruction of human life in the first trimester.

9 D. The existing parties do not adequately represent Dr. Hazelrigg’s and 10 Choices’ interests on behalf of unborn children in Arizona.

11 Dr. Hazelrigg and Choices also satisfy the requirement that the existing parties do 12 not adequately represent or protect the interests of unborn children in Arizona that they 13 advocate for. That the State may choose to exercise its legitimate interest in protecting 14 unborn life does not mean that the State has chosen to adequately represent that interest in 15 court.

16 As the Attorney General explains, his primary duty is to the State of Arizona and 17 remedying the harm that the State is incurring from being “depriv[ed] of the ability to 18 enforce its laws” because of the continued injunction of A.R.S. § 13-3603. Def. AG’s Br.
19 at 11. He also states that the unborn are a represented party to this case, but that the guardian 20 ad litem, not the Attorney General, represents them. Id. at 11. This is evident in the 21 Attorney General’s focus on how the continuing injunction “affects the substantial rights 22 of the State” “to enforce its sovereign interests in carrying out its criminal laws,” id., not 23 the narrower interests of unborn children themselves, whose lives are at stake. See 24 Californians For Safe & Competitive Dump Truck Transp. v. Mendonca, 152 F.3d 1184, 25 ⁸ Abortions in Arizona: 202 Abortion Report, ARIZ. DEP’T OF HEALTH SERV., 16 (Sept. 21, 2021), <https://bit.ly/3d7wkAt>.

1 1190 (9th Cir. 1998) (government representation may be inadequate where an applicant’s 2 interests are “potentially more narrow and parochial than the interests of the public at 3 large.”).

4 The Attorney General’s obligation to represent the broad interests of the State 5 warranted the Arizona Court of Appeals’ rejection of Planned Parenthood’s argument 6 against intervention in Planned Parenthood Ariz. Inc. v. Am. Ass’n of Pro-Life 7 Obstetricians & Gynecologists, 227 Ariz. 262, 279 (2011) (AAPLOG) (challenge to 8 Arizona’s abortion regulations). “The state must represent the interests of all people in 9 Arizona, some of whom might be adversely affected by these applicants’ exercise of the 10 rights protected by the provision. As a result, the state might not give these applicants’ 11 interests ‘the kind of primacy’ that these applicants would.” Id. And the Court found, 12 “Because it cannot be said that the state necessarily represents these applicants, they should 13 have been permitted to intervene.” Id.

14 So too here. The Attorney General did not represent Mr. Bloom as guardian ad litem 15 for the unborn in the original proceedings for this case. See Nelson, 19 Ariz. App. at 142 16 (listing private attorneys for “cross-appellee Bloom.”). And the Attorney General has made 17 it clear that he is primarily acting for the State now. This warrants a finding that the 18 Attorney General cannot adequately represent the interests of the unborn in this case.

19 And the only other named Defendant joined with Planned Parenthood in asking this 20 Court to interpret Arizona’s laws to allow licensed physicians to perform abortions up to 21 15 weeks’ gestation. See Pima Cnty. Attorney’s Joinder in Pl. Planned Parenthood’s Resp.
22 to Def. AG’s Mot. for Relief from J. at 4 (“the Pima County Attorney joins . . . Planned
23 Parenthood of Arizona in seeking a modified injunction and requests that the Attorney 24 General’s Motion for Relief from Judgment be granted in part and denied in part as 25 described in . . . Planned Parenthood’s Proposed Order.”).

1 Finally, as an obstetrician and an organization dedicated to protecting the unborn, 2 Dr. Hazelrigg and Choices will offer “necessary elements to the proceeding that other 3 parties would neglect” by providing critical evidence and arguments unavailable to the 4 State. Arakaki v. Cayetano, 324 F.3d 1078, 1086 (9th Cir. 2003). For example, Dr.
5 Hazelrigg can provide evidence of the pain dismemberment abortions cause to unborn 6 children at 15 weeks’ gestation and the advanced development of unborn children before 7 15 weeks’ gestation. See Proposed Reply in Supp. of Mot. for Relief from J. at 2, 4–5. And 8 Choices’ 39 years of experience providing support to unborn children and their mothers 9 allows it to demonstrate how knowledge of the details of human development affect the 10 way expectant mothers view their unborn children and protect the babies’ interests.
11 Burmich Decl. ¶ 3–9.

12 As in AAPLOG, the Defendants have shown they will not give the unborn’s interests 13 “the kind of primacy” that Dr. Hazelrigg and Choices will. 227 Ariz. at 279. Proposed 14 intervenors satisfy the Rule 24 requirement that the existing parties will not adequately 15 represent their interests in protecting unborn children in this matter. They therefore satisfy 16 the fourth requirement for intervention as of right.

17 Because Dr. Hazelrigg and Choices satisfy each requirement for intervention as of 18 right, this Court should grant intervention if this Court chooses to deny the Attorney 19 General’s motion to substitute Dr. Hazelrigg as guardian ad litem for Mr. Bloom.

20 II. Dr. Hazelrigg and Choices satisfy the Rule 24 requirements for permissive 21 intervention if this Court denies the motion to substitute and declines to grant 22 them intervention as of right.

23 In the alternative, Dr. Hazelrigg and Choices satisfy the Rule 24 requirements for 24 permissive intervention because they have a “defense that shares with the main action a 25 common question of law or fact.” Ariz. R. Civ. P. 24(b)(1)(B). Courts “consider a number of factors” when asked to grant permissive intervention, including: (1) “whether

1 intervention would unduly delay or prejudice the adjudication of the rights of the original 2 parties”; (2) “the nature and extent of the intervenor’s interests”; (3) “his or her standing to 3 raise relevant issues”; (4) “legal positions the proposed intervenor seeks to raise,” and (5) 4 “those positions’ probable relation to the merits of the case.” Dowling v. Stapley, 221 Ariz.
5 251, 272 (2009).

6 First, intervention would not unduly delay or prejudice the rights of the original 7 parties because (a) this matter has just recently begun, and (b) an original party to the prior 8 proceeding (Mr. Bloom) represented the interests of the unborn as guardian ad litem, such 9 that intervention will not alter the interests represented or nature of the parties. Second, 10 unborn children’s interests proposed intervenors represent, as well as Choices’ non-profit 11 mission to advocate for unborn children and serve women in Arizona through supporting 12 them during and after pregnancy, will be directly implicated by this Court’s decision to 13 modify or vacate the prior injunction blocking A.R.S. § 13-3603.

14 Abortion destroys unborn human life, unborn children in Arizona cannot protect 15 themselves, and their interest in being protected from elective abortion merits protection 16 by a third party. See Nelson, 19 Ariz. App. at 148–49. And as explained more fully above, 17 95% of abortions (13,186 abortions) in Arizona occurred at 15 weeks’ gestation or sooner 18 in 2020.⁹ This Court’s decision to vacate or modify the prior injunction on A.R.S. § 13-19 3603 will affect thousands of unborn children each year.

20 These factors weigh in favor of granting Dr. Hazelrigg and Choices permissive 21 intervention if this Court denies the Attorney General’s motion to substitute Dr. Hazelrigg 22 as guardian ad litem.

23 CONCLUSION

⁹ ARIZ. DEP’T OF HEALTH SERVICES, supra n. 5 at 16.

1 This Court should grant the Attorney General’s motion to substitute Dr. Hazelrigg 2 as guardian ad litem for unborn children in Arizona. If the Court denies that motion, it 3 should allow Dr. Hazelrigg and Choices to intervene on behalf of the unborn and 4 themselves because they satisfy Rule 24’s requirements.
